POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS
Social Science Experimental Laboratory, Social Science Division
NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Science Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at the Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi, http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/research/faculty-research/ssel-laboratory.html, seeks to appoint a Post-Doctoral Researcher starting September 2015. We are open as to discipline within the social sciences and we encourage applications from promising candidates with a capacity to conduct innovative, high-quality experimental research. This academic year SSEL moved into new facilities on Saadiyat Island (two laboratories with a combined total of 48 networked computers) and will host our second Winter Experimental Social Science Institute for phd students and Assistant Professors, http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/research/faculty-research/ssel-laboratory/winter-institute.html. We are in the process of building an exciting subject pool from the larger Abu Dhabi community which promises exciting avenues for new research.

Applicants must have received a Ph.D in the last three years or be within a few months from completion and have training and experience in experimental social science. In addition, experience in game theoretic laboratory experimental research as well as computer programming for experiments is desirable. SSEL Post-Doctoral researchers are expected to spend approximately 25% of their time assisting in lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton. Appointments will be for three academic years conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance at the end of the first semester.
