- BOOK PROJECT 1 Taxation and Representation in the Southern States, 1820-1913
The book analyzes the relationship between economic development, political representation, and taxation in the Southern states in the 19th Century
- BOOK PROJECT 2 Taxation and Representation in the Northern States, 1820-1913
While the slogan “no taxation without representation” is at the core of America’s origin, the extent to which this foundational idea meaningfully influenced fiscal developments in the early American states remains underexplored. We address this gap by examining how political and economic development affected taxation in the early republic.
- BOOK PROJECT 3 Financing the State: Inequality and Fiscal Capacity across Uneven Territories
Develops a theory of state-building by examining how the power and interests of local agrarian elites affect public goods provision across the national territory
- JOURNAL ARTICLES “Ethnoracial Homogeneity and Public Outcomes: The (Non)effects of Diversity” (with Alexander Kustov). American Political Science Review, November 2018, 112(4), 1096-1103.
- “When Coethnicity Fails” (with Alexander Kustov). World Politics, Forthcoming.
