

Are you a native English speaker?

- Researchers at the Neuroscience of Language Lab in New York University Abu Dhabi are looking for people like you!
- If you are a right-handed, native English speaker, you may be able to participate in research focused on the brain-basis of language.
- Participation involves a magneto-encephalographic recording in order to estimate your brain activity!
- The study requires one to two hours of your time. Participants will receive a transportation and meal allowance of 30 AED per half hour.
